Class Welcome

Mothers, Dads, Friends:

Today we welcome you, our parents, friends, and supporters, to our Class Day Exercises at Pinkerton Academy. These Exercises mark the end of four years of work that have been enjoyed by each and every one us. To those who have supported us and made these four years possible, we are very grateful.

We hope that you will enjoy listening to our program today as much as we shall enjoy giving it, for it climaxes four happy years at Pinkerton Academy.

Louis DiPietro

Lest We Forget

In the fall of 1937 a plucky craft, manned by the Class of '41, docked at Pinkerton Harbor. At the helm of our sturdy ship were Louis DiPietro, Helen Kisiel, Donald Gagne, and Marcia Smith. So that we could be thoroughly distinguished from other water craft, a banner of green and white was raised to wave over us for four long years. When asked to make a statement for the Pinkerton Critic, our Crew of '41 shouted the following:

"Green the sea, white the sails, Forty-one's the crew.

With fight and sport,

We'll reach the port,

And bear our vessel through!

'41! '41!"

Our Crew of '41 was formally introduced to the members of Pinkerton's faculty and student body on September 24, when a reception was given for us by the Seniors. Laughingly, we donned charming green and white bonnets so thoughtfully requested by the Sophomores. Dressed in this strange garb, we all enjoyed the remainder of the evening while dancing to the strains of Ed Harvey's Orchestra.

During that gloriously eventful first year, we sailors took active part in sports, dramatics, socials, and other school activities. We found it rather pleasant to be here in the harbor of Pinkerton Academy, but in mid June, '41's crew heard the call of the open sea and set sail for parts unknown.

Early in September, 1938, the Class of '41 again dropped anchor in Pinkerton's Harbor. Our crew, now Sophomores, unanimously re-elected the officers of the previous year. We were pleased to find Mr. Wheelock in the adviser's chair, and we looked forward to a most successful year. We certainly never will forget "Ye Olde Annuale Sophomore Hallowe'en Party" and the Grand March which was longer than its name. That year will always be a memorable year for most of us because it was then that we actually began to take active part in the various school activities.

Nevertheless, in spite of all our good times, the year went swiftly on and before we realized it, June had come and another Commencement had passed.

We were not so eager to leave for the open sea again this time; but once we had hauled up anchor and started sailing, we felt so refreshed that we thought we might need a short vacation after all.

In the fall of 1939, we returned for another term at Pinkerton's Harbor. We got off to an excellent start in our Junior year by having Mr. Conner as our new class adviser. The ship's officers of the previous year were again reelected.

We held our annual Junior Prom on February 9, at Academy Hall. The hall was decorated with the ship's colors, green and white, and Ed Harvey's Orchestra furnished music for the evening. Our former class adviser, Mr. Wheelock, was our special guest on that never-to-be-forgotten evening.

On March 15, we presented the play "Lights Out" at the Adams Memorial Hall. Under the direction of Miss Margaret Monfils, our sailors put on a great show. We will never forget how surprised the audience was when the lights really went out.

Although we were glad when it was time to set sail for our summer vacation, we realized that our seemingly long stay at Pinkerton was growing shorter. However, we looked forward with great anticipation to the next year when we would be Seniors and would enjoy all the Senior privileges.

We were aboard the good ship '41 during the months when she was lying in Pinkerton Harbor every year, but the season of 1940-41 is one we shall never forget. This being our fourth year together before the mast, we decided to have some symbol of the bond of friendship between us, so a committee was elected to purchase a class ring. The choice was perfect, as neat as a racing schooner lying against the wind.

One of the most memorable events of our Senior year was the night we put forth from home and dropped anchor in the cove called Island Pond. We filled the boats in no time, and they were no sooner beached than everyone leaped to the shore and scurried about with the materials for an old-fashioned corn roast. Three of our special guests, Mr. Wright, Mr. Thomas, and Mr. Taylor, were aboard and sang to provide entertainment. There were those who thought it more amusing than entertaining. When we set sail for home, everyone readily admitted that a good time was had by all.

On September 18, 1940, Louis DiPietro, still holding his master's papers, was re-appointed Captain of the ship; Helen Kisiel, First Mate; Donald Gagne, Treasurer; and Marcia Smith, Keeper of the Log. Two of our members received appointments to the Council of Navigation.

On September 27, 1940, we were hosts to some young folks who will eventually become first-class sailors. This was entered in the log as the Freshman Reception. The new members of the faculty looked mighty cute in their pink and blue bonnets. Although a few were reluctant to don them at first, they finally accepted their fate, and in spite of the bonnets had a most enjoyable evening of games and dancing.

One of the members of our crew, Helen Kisiel, was selected for the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Pilgrimage on January 8, 1941. She later represented the local chapter of the D. A. R. in the state contest at Concord.

On January 31, 1941, we sponsored a play entitled "Going On Seventeen". The play was one of the most successful plays ever to be presented by any Senior group, and the financial return was far above average. The play was under the direction of Miss Barbara Rowell.

The Senior Kid Party was held at Academy Hall on May 15, 1941. Our crew, dressed in kiddies' clothes, spent a very enjoyable evening playing such games as would entertain any young child.

On May 23, 1941, we boarded one of the ships of the Eastern Steamship Lines bound for New York. Two of the highlights of the trip were our visit to the LaGuardia Airport, and the view of New York at night from the tallest building in the world, the Empire State Building. The trip was one of the most interesting events of the year, especially since this was the first trip to New York for many of us.

The annual Senior Howl was held on June 10, 1941, when we set sail for parts unknown. We wonder if our shipmates will ever forget this eventful evening.

Now our voyage upon the good ship '41 is over. Some of our crew have received appointments to bigger and better crafts, while others have yet to find their places in the sea of life. However, to all, we say, "Smooth sailing, Sailors".

Class Athletics

Boys

September, 1937, saw a group of little Freshman boys running out to the oval, all expecting varsity positions on the football squad; but Coach Clark evidently had other ideas, because no Freshmen starred that year. Our big moment came when the annual Freshman-Sophomore football game arrived. The eleven Freshman Midgets went onto the field to be crushed by a heavy and powerful Sophomore Team with a score of 26-7. Many an ache and pain was carried home by the Freshmen.

In the spring, as soon as the frost came out of the ground, many of the Freshman hopefuls once more journeyed down to the Alumni Oval, this time to hit home-runs. This time our class was honored by having the shortstop and second-base positions filled by James Gagnon and Russell Faubert.

During our Sophomore year the boys once again trooped down to the clubhouse for the football season, and Elwin Bailey and Ernest Barka earned their varsity letters by being on the squad. The Sophomore-Freshman football game was once more a big moment, and down went our team to face the Freshmen. After a nip-and-tuck game, the Freshmen tallied in the last minutes, to leave a sad but wiser group of Sophomores.

In basketball, although we were the champions of the first quarter, we couldn't scrape up enough victories to come through with the championship. Ernest Barka was the lone wolf representative of good old '41, playing as guard or forward on the varsity.

When the baseball season rolled around again, two Freshman stars again earned their varsity positions, and Ernest Barka took up the duties of catching. That season was better than Pinkerton had expected, since many of the members of the team were "greenhorns" that year.

During the fall of our Junior year, the Pinkerton eleven turned out with nine veterans; and with this nucleus, Coach Clark built his third undefeated team in five years. Bailey, Barka, and Mitchell were in the starting line-up, as center, halfback, and tackle respectively. Gold footballs were presented to the members of the team at a banquet held at the end of the season.

In class basketball the Class of '41 were runners-up for the inter-class championship, but were defeated by a fast and powerful Sophomore team. Basketball did not seem to be our strong point, for Ernest Barka was once again the sole representative of '41 on the Varsity. The team won a good percentage of its games, and went to the Townsend Tournament, where it gave a good account of itself and took a prize.

After a hard fight in inter-class baseball, we managed to get into the tournament play-off, but the Freshmen defeated us by two points. On the varsity team we had an excellent representation and a very good season. James Gagnon, Russell Faubert, Ernest Barka, and Elwin Bailey earned their varsity letters, while Arthur Scott was the little manager.

During our Senior year, seven boys earned positions on the football team: Captain Elwin Bailey as fullback; Ernest Barka as halfback; Arthur Scott, George LaPorte, and John Gagnon as tackles; Robert Perry as guard; and Douglas Mitchell as center.

This year we supplied two members of the varsity basketball team. Elwin Bailey and Captain Ernest Barka both were on the team. Once more the team journeyed to Townsend, but were defeated, after a fast and furious game, by the tournament champs, who managed to get a single basket victory.

The Seniors on our strong baseball team in the Spring of 1941 were third baseman and captain, James Gagnon; catcher, Ernest Barka; and pitcher, Elwin Bailey. Having won the first four games, the team couldn't help but go through with a successful season.

Although we have been somewhat unsuccessful in class athletics, we, the Class of 1941, feel that we have something to be proud of, for Ernest Barka earned a total of nine letters, something rarely done at Pinkerton. The other members of the class who earned letters in varsity athletics are: Elwin Bailey, football 2, 3, 4—basketball 4—baseball 3, 4; James Gagnon, baseball 2, 3, 4, (Captain 4); Russell Faubert, baseball 2, 3; Douglas Mitchell, football 3, 4; John Gagnon, football 4; Arthur Scott, football 4—baseball mgr. 3; George LaPorte, football 4; Robert Perry, football 4.

Girls

During our four years' stay at Pinkerton the girls of the Class of '41 have participated in all the sports that are offered for girls. Hockey and basketball have been the two sports which have created the most interest, because these two sports are the only ones that have varsity teams. During our Sophomore year we became co-champions with the Seniors in hockey. The next year we again won the hockey trophy, only this time we didn't share the honor with another class. During our Senior year we again had in our possession the hockey trophy, thus keeping it for three straight years.

We did not win any trophy in basketball, although we had a powerful basketball team defending our class during the entire four years. However, our class was well represented on the varsity teams in both basketball and hockey, with Helen Katsakiores as Varsity Captain of basketball during our Senior year, and Pauline Woodbury as Varsity Captain of hockey.

Tennis also has become a favorite sport in our class. One member, Carol Campbell, has been tennis champion of the school for two years.

Nine of our members have received Pinkerton letters. These letters are awarded on a point system. To earn a letter a girl must not only participate in all sports, but also in social activities as well. The girls who have earned their letters have worked hard and faithfully for them. Also, two members have received numerals. Numerals are awarded to girls who haven't quite enough points to receive a letter. Those girls who have received letters are Carol Campbell, Pauline Woodbury, Mary Kachavos, Doris Dumont, Pearl Bellavance, Helen Katsakiores, Barbara Weston, Barbara Keith, Helen Kisiel, Bertha Smith, and Mary Young. The two girls who received numerals are Marcia Smith and Mary Dorman.

The girls of the Class of 1941 wish to express their most sincere appreciation to Miss Hanson, Miss Fernald, Mr. Bell, and Mr. Wright for the time that they have devoted to girls' athletics, and for the fine spirit which they have shown in leading us. It is with deep and sincere regret that we close the door to all the activities that we are to leave at Pinkerton Academy.

Class Statistics

Green the sea. White the sails, Forty-one's the crew. With fight and sport, We'll reach the port, And bear our vessel through. Now we have our class statistics— In number we are sixty-six. Many religious denominations are in our midst: Twenty-five Catholics, nine Congregationalists, Baptists and Methodists each have nine, Six Episcopalians are next in line, Of Presbyterians, there are three, The Orthodox and Christian Scientists have two apiece, you see, The Church of God and the Nazarenes each have one. With an Alliance member the list is done. Russell Faubert can really dance All dressed up in his jitterbug pants. Pearl Bellavance is clever with her tap; To our best girl dancer we'll take off our hats. We've chosen Bette Davis as our favorite actress; She lives in New Hampshire and not in the cactus.

And, oh ves, we will never forget: Dashing Clark Gable we remember as Rhett. Frances Meakim has little to say; Our quietest girl is always that way. Carl Guinesso, is a silent boy, too; Knowing he's quiet is nothing new. Mary Kachavos is our wittiest girl: She keeps us all in an endless whirl. Of the boys, Peirce Woodward has all the wit; No one else this title will fit. Although we have an intellectual look, "Gone With the Wind" is our favorite book. Our most popular girl we know as Dizzy; To amuse us all sure keeps her busy. Barka is the most popular of boys; He has that thing we know as poise. Our favorite song is "Amapola", Our favorite drink is Coca Cola, Our best dressed girl is "Fuzzy", Perhaps vou know her as Elaine Muzzev. Our best dressed boy is Harold Bean; He looks nice wherever he's seen. Mr. Hackler is our favorite teacher: We all agree he'd make a good preacher. History is our favorite class; We'd rather go there than fishing for bass. A prettier girl we never knew Than Ruth Stevens with eyes of blue. Gordon Robie is our best looking boy, And his wavy hair is all the girls' joy. Virginia Tupper is our youngest lass, But Carl Guinesso is youngest in the class. Our oldest boy is Robert Perry; We are all glad he lives in Derry. Pearl Bartlett is the oldest belle; Her age is a secret so we won't tell. Helen Katsakiores and Allie Hartman are very short; Find a smaller pair we really could not. Our tallest girl and our tallest beau Are Connie Davis and Joe Guilbeault. And so the class of forty-one Bids adieu to Pinkerton.

"41" to P. A.

Farewell
We bid thee.
We are leaving,
Leaving, going, yet
Words can ne'er tell truly
How we hate to go away.

But the day is just beginning, Our journey's just begun, And there is much for us to do Before our journey's done. We go to face it unafraid, Using what we have to meet The plans which fate has made. Sometimes the skies will darken, Sometimes skies will be gray, There may be stormy weather, But it shall not come to stay. We shall pledge ourselves forever To keep our country free. We shall do our best and ne'er forget The things we learned from thee. Now the time has come for leaving, Yes, the time has come to part, And we must leave your portals And upon life's highway start.

How we hate to go away Words can ne'er tell truly. Leaving, going, yes, We are leaving. We bid thee Farewell.

Class Prophecy

Scene—a train terminal in Chicago. A low-flying plane crashes and three trains are wrecked. The passengers are strewn in all directions. Claire Griffin and Pauline Woodbury sit up and rub their bumped heads. Peirce Woodward, seeing two former classmates, walks over to help them up.

Peirce: Why, hello, Red. Fancy seeing you here, but you always were in the midst of any commotion. Don't tell me that's Claire Griffin. Hello, Claire.

Claire: Hello, Peirce, the last time I heard of you, you were Chief Forester in Alaska.

Peirce: Yes, and I still am, but I came down here on my vacation to look up some of the old gang. What are you two doing here?

Pauline: Oh, I'm going West to get some pointers on football because you know I'm manager of the Collegian All-American Football Team.

Claire: And I'm opening the new branch for John Powers in Chicago. Boy! I'd like to know who the engineers and pilots are.

Peirce: Well, take a look at them. They're none other than Frankie Levandowski and George Otis.

Pauline: Hey! That looks like Joe Guilbeault's head coming out of the fuse-lage. He's supposed to be a pretty good aviator, but I suppose the new air line hostess, Lola Miller, bothered him.

Claire: Adrien Adam is the radio technician. I wonder what happened to him. He's supposed to know a lot about that line. But accidents will happen.

Pauline: Say, what's that puff of smoke coming down the track?

Peirce: Oh, don't be afraid. That is only Al Gates. Burnt up as usual. I wonder what he's doing here?

Alfred: Of all the numb—oh, what's the use of saying anything. I'll buy another plane right away.

Claire: You will? What do you do for a living?

Alfred: At the present I'm President of the New York Stock Exchange, and I also own this passenger plane. I'll need a lawyer to defend me in this case.

Peirce: Why don't you hire Louis DiPietro? He's one of the best in the country.

Pauline: Let's walk around and see if there's much damage done. Say, there's Carl Guinesso. I understand that he is a secret agent of the United States. Perhaps he will investigate this accident.

Alfred: That large wrecker belongs to Carpenter. His garage is certainly a prosperous business. He and his wife, the former Barbara Keith, have the cutest home in Lewisville. Barbara is a radio comedian now.

Peirce: On my trip back to Alaska I am going to travel with Russell Hamer. He is an explorer in Alaska. He's doing a darn good job, too.

Claire: Well, of all things! That doctor and those nurses over there are old chums of ours, Dave Emery, Marion Blake, and Mildred Demianow.

Alfred: Say, maybe I should have taken up that deal the other day.

Peirce: What deal is that, Al?

Alfred: Why, Stanley Kuligowski came in to see me about a loan to extend his bus line westward, via Chicago. By the way, Adelaide Messier is a representative of his company, and a capable one at that.

Pauline: I always knew I should have joined the navy, along with Doug Mitchell and Elwin Bailey; at least they won't have the experience of being thrown across an observation car. Or better still I should have gone along with Mary Dorman on her cruise of the South Seas.

Claire: Now that you have mentioned the service, Pauline, it reminds me of a letter I received from Bertha Smith the other day. You see, she is a dietician in the army and often has to handle trifling complaints about the food. The other day Captain LaPorte of the Air Force complained of several stomach attacks after a light lunch topped off with two fair-sized lemon pies! Ruth Beckford is a capable hostess at the same fort, I believe.

Alfred: I always knew it would take something pretty good to get us together for a reunion. That veterinary over there by the stock yards is Henry Plimpton.

Pauline: You're right, Al, and Hans Hanson is also stationed in Chicago, as a cattle inspector for the Government, according to the newspapers.

Peirce: Well, take a look at the name on those tank cars over there!

Claire: "John B. Gagnon's National Dairy Corp." Johnny always did do the surprising things, and say, I'll bet Wallace King as Head Superviser of General Mills has been a great help to John. They always were great friends.

Pauline: Now that we are nearing the center of the city, shouldn't we keep an eye open for a place to eat?

Peirce: Same old Woodbury!

Alfred: That's all right, Pauline. I was just thinking of a classy cafe, called "Gummy's, a little farther up. Ruth Welch has the position of head waitress and Arlis Rolland is cashier. They serve wonderful food.

Claire: Sounds ideal to me. To get back to our friends again. I wonder if our wanderers, Donald Gagne or Mary Tangney, who are in Europe now have come across Frances Meakim in their travels? The last I heard Frances was still a missionary worker in Borneo.

Alfred: Or has anyone seen Albert Hartman who is a demonstrator of sporting equipment for the Whossie's Athletic Goods Co.? Marcia Smith is secretary of the company.

Pauline: I know a better one than that. Ernest Barka is Headmaster of dear old P. A. His wife, the former sarong girl, Dorothy Lamour, just loves New Hampshire. Arthur Scott is the teacher of Industrial Arts, Alice Patnaude is librarian, and, you guessed it, Helen Kisiel is secretary.

Peirce: With that set-up they ought to have a well-managed school. Does anyone know how Carol Campbell made out as a truant officer?

Claire: I saw Carol just before I left New York. She said she scared all the children into going to school, and thus explained her promotion to a good position in the New York schools.

Peirce: Good for her. She must have been acquainted with the technique of skipping school to accomplish what she has, though.

Alfred: Look out!!! Say, that car nearly ran us down. If that driver were in New Hampshire, he would have been stopped by a trooper before now. Captain Lawrence Legg has built up a very efficient force. Good old Larry, he was a great one for efficiency.

Pauline: Oh! Oh! Look at the hair-do in that beauty shop, Claire.

Claire: Yes, but look at the sign over the shop door, "Girlies' Hair Dressing Salon," managed by Beatrice Purdy with Helen Katsakiores as assistant. It's a small world.

Alfred: Maybe it seems small here, but when you think of the millions of people that inhabit it, it looks a little larger.

Pauline: And think of the work Vincent Cassidy as President of the United States must have to do to keep such a large and rich nation prospering.

Peirce: Yes, I have to take off my hat to Cassidy; he has done wonders for the U. S. Look at what he has done for the large cities alone. With Mary Young and Mary Kachavos he has practically done away with slums.

Pauline: Don't forget, though, it was little things like Ruth Stevens' originality in interior decorating and Virginia Tupper's enthusiasm in bringing school and home life closer together that helped Cassidy accomplish this.

Alfred: Well, well, there's Barbs Weston looking over the wreckage. I suppose she's still looking for injured pitchers to take care of.

Pauline: Hey, we just passed Beanie's Broken Record Shop. Speaking of records, a lot have been broken since we left P. A. It will go down in history that Elaine Muzzey Zekey broke the Dionne's record by having sextuplets.

Alfred: What's all that cackling?

Claire: Oh, don't be alarmed. That's Audrey Pace with a small crate of hens. She is co-worker with Penry Hatnaude in his small hennery.

Peirce: As long as we have the whole afternoon, why don't we go out to the flying field to see Connie Davis as a stunt pilot?

Alfred: On the way to the field we can drop in to see Jimmy Gagnon. He is coach of one of the best baseball teams this country will ever see.

Pauline: Did Pearl Bartlett fulfill her ambition of marrying that Pennsylvania University Professor?

Alfred: Yes, she did. Will you excuse me for a moment while I call up one of my bankers? Incidentally he is none other than that quiet little man, Richard Munsey.

Peirce: Well, will you look at that sign! Robert Perry, Manager of a First National Store! I always knew that he would make good.

Alfred: I just got the surprise of my life. Remember that little spitfire, Betty Andrewes? Well, it seems that she has settled down and is Richard Munsey's private secretary.

Claire: Say, I don't feel quite up to going to the airport today. Can't we go somewhere else?

Alfred: Why don't you come over with me while I go to the rehearsal of Doris Dumont's latest musical hit. It had better be a hit because I've got plenty sunk in it. And boy, what an assistant she has. That little girl from Skowhegan, Phiddie Johnson. Between them they turn out musical shows that would put M. G. M. to shame.

Peirce: When you mentioned musicals, Al, it made me think of a radio program that I heard the other night. It was the "Buxby Theatre" play, with that great and romantic Hollywood leading man, Gordon Robie, playing the leading role.

Pauline: I read in the paper recently that Doris Plimpton and Marvis Ham are giving a recital in New York next week.

Claire: I think I'll go out to the famous Chicago Playhouse on the loop to hear Russell Faubert's famous orchestra and see the girl with the educated toes, Pearl Bellavance, who is Rusty's wife.

Alfred: Well, it took a crack-up to get us together for a class reunion, but after all it was fun to find out what the rest of the class is doing. It seems that the class as a whole has set a high mark for future classes to shoot at.

Senior Class Gifts

Adrien Adam:

Try this gauze, Adam. Maybe it will help when your skiis become uncontrollable.

Betty Andrewes:

Because nobody seems to know who your boy friend is, Betty, we give you this man. Now we all know who he is.

Elwin Bailey:

Take your pick, Bailey a red-head and a brunette. Which will it be?

Ernest Barka:

Have you ever used an alarm clock, Barka? Take this to the jeweler and ask him to set it so that you can get up on time.

Pearl Bartlett:

With this little piano, Pearl, you may accompany Ernest when he sings.

Harold Bean:

"He shall have music wherever he goes." Here are some hot records you can take with you, Beanie.

Ruth Beckford:

A tin soldier for you, Beckey, to keep you company when he is far away.

Pearl Bellavance:

Swing and Sway on your way to fame. You remind us all of a hula girl, Pearl. See if this skirt will help you any.

Marion Blake:

Here's a first-aid book, Marion. Look and see if there is any remedy for heartburn.

Carol Campbell:

Try these skiis, Carol. We've seen some pretty fancy skiing around town; maybe we'll see more more. How about it?

Roland Carpenter:

Buddy, the next time you find a girl, tie her with this rope. Then she won't get away from you.

Vincent Cassidy:

You are weighed down with photographs, aren't you, Vincent? Why not carry them in this album.

Constance Davis:

When you have flown to higher levels, don't forget to come back in this airplane to visit the rest of the Class of "41".

Mildred Demianow:

To you, Millie, we are giving a thermometer so that you can keep track of the rise in Walter's temperature.

Louis DiPietro:

We hear you have trouble with blow-outs, Louie. Here's a new tire for replacement when you have any more trouble.

Mary Dorman:

We hear that there are two fish on your string, Mary. Have you decided which one you are going to throw back?

Doris Dumont:

Perhaps you can make this model house into a little Holm of your own, Diz.

David Emery:

That rattletrap you call a bicycle is surely dilapidated. Try this one for for more speed and comfort.

Russell Faubert:

If you are going into the flirting business, Rusty, we want you to have this diploma so that everyone will know you have passed the test.

Donald Gagne:

Have you ever tried a scooter, Don? It's a lot easier than holding up your thumb. Maybe it will help you "scoot" to success.

James Gagnon:

We'd hate to see Marion lonesome, Jimmy. Perhaps this road map with a route to Pepperell, Massachusetts, marked on it will help you to find your way there more often.

John Gagnon:

Here's a helpful book, John. It's all about giving instructions to women drivers. We've heard a lot about your experiences in this field.

Alfred Gates:

We hear you have trouble with your big ears on cold days, Al. Have you ever had a chance to try ear muffs?

Claire Griffin:

Things get around, Claire. Read this interesting book on farming. Maybe it will help you carry on a more intelligent conversation with Leon.

Joseph Guilbeault:

Have you ever tried to fly blind, or get a blind date? Here are ten easy lessons to help you along.

Carl Guinesso:

You're not bashful are you, Carl? Here's another "bashful" fellow. Maybe you can get him to talk with you.

Marvis Ham:

A stenographer's notebook for you, Marvis. May it help you in later life as it has in Pinkerton.

Russell Hamer:

Since you blush so quickly, Russell, you might use this mask to help you hide your face.

Hans Hanson:

This blonde doll may or may not look like Viola, but she will be company for you on rainy nights.

Albert Hartman:

We heard of the difficulties you had in keeping your dates with Beatrice straight. Here is a date book to write them in.

Phyllis Johnson:

This colorful picture must be for you, Phid, for the center of attraction in the picture is the "Schuy".

Mary Kachavos:

To be a radio comedian is an honor, Mary. We give you this radio contract, hoping it will help you to success.

Helen Katsakiores:

When you're a secretary and you can't sit on the boss's knee, perhaps this chair will be of use to you.

Barbara Keith:

We hear you have a hard time to find a man. Use this telephone directory. It might come in handy.

Wallace King:

We hear you are interested in repairing radios, Wally. Here is something to practice on in your spare time.

Helen Kisiel:

This little Dutch girl is meant for you. We hear you are working in Holland's.

Stanley Kuligowski:

This bus is for you, Stan. Now when you go to a dance, you can take home all the girls you want.

George LaPorte:

George, even though you're graduating, you can still keep the fire going with this shovel.

Lawrence Legg:

Try this "slickum", Lawrence. It will help you keep your hair down on windy days.

Frank Levandowski:

We give you this flashlight with the hope that you may be able to find your way more easily in the pines by the Floyd School.

Frances Meakim:

To you, Frances, goes the traditional noise maker, so that you no longer will be our quietest girl.

Adelaide Messier:

We sincerely trust that this book of library slips will help you along in your future profession.

Lola Miller:

This little bar is made if iron. Watch it carefully; it might get "Rusty". Douglas Mitchell:

This boat must be for you, Mitch. We hear you're joining the navy.

Richard Munsey:

We give you this horse, Munsey, so that now you can take long rides on horseback with June.

Elaine Muzzev:

Here's a package of dye for you, Elaine. We hear you are interested in dvein'. (Dion).

George Otis:

You seem to have trouble in finding enough room in your car for all the girls who want rides. Here's one that's bigger and better.

Audrey Pace:

The next time you give a party, Audrey, be sure you have a spare light bulb. This bulb may come in handy.

Alice Patnaude:

When you make a mistake in typing, why not use this ink eraser to correct it?

Robert Perry:

We're sure we don't know the significance of this bottle of Richardson's cider, but here it is anyway.

Doris Plimpton:

This candy bar must be for you, Doris. The name of it is "Wilbur".

Henry Plimpton:

Here is a megaphone so you may be heard more clearly from now on.

Beatrice Purdy:

Beatrice, this red hair-dye will give you a head start when you open your beauty parlor.

Gordon Robie:

We have heard that you have a hard time getting in at night without being caught. Here is a key to the back door.

Arlis Rolland:

When you leave Derry to live in Manchester, we want you to take this autograph book along with you to remember us by.

Arthur Scott:

Here is a diet schedule for you, Scotty. We don't see what you should want one for.

Bertha Smith:

Bertha, here's a potato peeler. You might visit the army, and while you're there, help Norman peel potatoes.

Marcia Smith:

This pad of paper and pencil will enable you to be anyone's private secretary now.

Ruth Stevens:

Here is a cow for you, Ruthie. If he gets out of hand, call Henry.

Mary Tangney:

This book of jitterbug steps will help you learn new ones to add to your collection. Now you can go dancing anywhere.

Virginia Tupper:

This young, innocent fellow is just an addition to your collection. Get them young and bring them up right. Your wisdom may help you to "educate" him.

Ruth Welch:

This sandwich came from one of the restaurants in Derry. I wonder which one.

Barbara Weston:

Sailor's leaves are few and far between. This little sailor boy may not look like Elwin, but he'll help to keep you reminded of him.

Pauline Woodbury:

Well! Well! This car must be for you, Red. Now you won't have to ride in trucks.

Peirce Woodward:

Peirce, you are a witty boy. Consequently, we are giving you this book of jokes so that you may become all the more witty.

Mary Young:

Medals are always given to the deserving, and we think you merit this one for taking Purdy to church.

Class Will

We, the members of the Class of 1941, of Pinkerton Academy, situated high on a windy hill in the town of Derry Village, and County of Rockingham in the Granite State of the United States, Continent of North America, in the Western Hemisphere, of the planet Earth, being of sound mind and high spirits, and having our craniums crammed full of knowledge, do hereby give and bequeath our enviable characteristics and our cherished belongings to our less fortunate successors.

We hereby affirm and declare this to be the last will and testament of the Class of 1941.

- Art. 1. I, Mary Dorman, do will and bequeath to all brunettes my interest in blondes.
- Art. 2. I, Mary Young, do hereby will and bequeath my unfailing ability to make futile plans to my sister Jean. May she learn by experience.

- Art. 3. I, Carol Campbell, leave my "here today and gone tomorrow" complex to Betty Smith. Hope you can get away with it as well as I have, Betty.
- Art. 4. I, Pauline Woodbury, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to bluff any teacher in the school to the Manning twins. Red hair is good luck, Twinnies.
- Art. 5. I, Connie Davis, will and bequeath my raven hair to Marjorie Andrews.

Presentation of the Spade

On behalf of the Class of 1943, I take great pleasure in presenting to the Class of 1944 this spade, which we received a year ago. I sincerely hope that it will be a help to you in digging your way upward to success, not only during this next year but also in the years to come.

Raymond Hall '43

Acceptance of the Spade

It is with pride that I receive for the Class of 1944 this spade which has been handed down for so many years to the Freshman Classes of Pinkerton Academy. I am sure that the Class of 1944 will keep digging upward as other classes have in the past.

Bernard Dick '44

Salutatory

It is a great pleasure for me as a representative of this graduating class to welcome you, parents, friends, and teachers to our graduation and to the one hundred and twenty-third commencement at Pinkerton Academy. To see you here today makes us aware of the great part which all of you have taken in enabling us to reach our goal, our graduation from Pinkerton Academy. Without the help of each and every one of you we would have been unable to be here today to receive that which means so much to us, diplomas to show that our last four years have been a success and not a failure.

Four years ago when we entered the portals of Pinkerton Academy, to be taken under the protective care of our beloved school, we, as Freshmen, knew nothing as to what our future life would be like. During our stay here at Pinkerton Academy we have come to know the real meaning of cooperation and friendship. When we entered Pinkerton, we didn't really understand what the words "cooperation" and "friendship" meant. They are actually more than just two words. They are two qualities which we must desire and practice if our lives are to be successful. Friends are as essential to our social life as food and water are to our physical life. We simply cannot get along without them. We realize now that all of you have rejoiced with us in each achievement and have sympathized with us in each disappointment and failure. When we go beyond the doors of Pinkerton Academy into another life, we must make new friends who will be a part of our lives just as our friends at Pinkerton Academy have been.

Cooperation is important to us, also, as it includes good sportsmanship and fairness. We should rejoice in the achievements and success of others just as we do when we are the fortunate ones. By working together and playing fair we find ourselves getting greater enjoyment out of life.

In addition to learning the meaning of cooperation and friendship, we have come to know that each and every one of us has had a certain ideal which has been set firmly before him, giving him encouragement to go on. Often it has seemed that in trying to attain these ideals we have had to give more than we have received, but it has been necessary for us to face both difficulties and pleasures in order to discover whether or not we are worthy of succeeding. With each failure we have gained a bit of wisdom and knowledge which are signs of success. These successes and failures eventually will lead to the attainment of our ideal. You easily can understand, then, that it is not only book knowledge which we have acquired here at Pinkerton, but knowledge which comes through working with one another in the bright moments as well as in the darkest moments.

Therefore, on behalf of my classmates, I not only welcome you, but I also wish to thank you, parents and teachers, who have given us encouragement to try to attain our individual ideals. It is only fitting that you, who have helped us and done so much for us, should be here today to see us receive that which we have been working to obtain, our diplomas. As you have shared with us in our pleasures and misfortune during the last four years, you should share with us in the pleasure which is ours today.

Elaine Muzzey

Valedictory

Today, we, the members of the Class of 1941, are all together for the last time. After today, we shall be scattered, and there will be no further occasion on which we as a class can express any feelings concerning our four years at Pinkerton Academy. Therefore, I believe that I am fortunate in having the opportunity to say a few words before our actual graduation.

Now we are about to join in the grim game of life, where we shall encounter bad luck as well as success. The game will have its uncertain moments where decisions will have to be made; and we certainly hope we shall be wise in making these decisions. We also shall have to be ready to take many hard knocks without flinching. Just as the quitter in sports usually fails, so is the quitter in this grim game of life unsuccessful. Consequently, we must accept occasional reverses with courage. At this time, with war perhap inevitable, we must not object because money and comforts to which we are accustomed are not as plentiful in our homes as we should like. We must acclimate ourselves to present conditions and be optimistic about the future.

Probably we all have ideas as to what we wish our future vocations to be. Of course, circumstances may prevent many of our ambitions from being realized. But we must not think that we can't be successful if our plans are changed, for there are opportunities for us in many fields; and we shall certainly be able to find more than one vocation which is suitable for each of us.

The life which awaits us is one which, especially in this crucial and uncertain time, presents much discouragement. But we must be optimistic and know that we are going to accomplish much during our span of life. We know we shall face difficulties, we who have so recently become adults, and who, accordingly, are perhaps a little too eager to overcome these difficulties. Although it might be well to substitute patience and sound judgment for our excess eagerness, we should take care that it is not entirely eliminated, for a certain amount of eagerness is necessary.

But in spite of all the problems and difficulties which we know we shall have to face, today we are fearless of the future, not because we shall any longer have teachers and a school as guides, but because we shall have that training, poise, and confidence which our four years at Pinkerton have instilled in us.

Now, on behalf of the Class of 1941, I have the privilege of thanking Mr. Wright for the support he has given our class activities during our Senior year.

Faculty Members, the training we have received from you always will be valuable to us in future years, and we humbly thank you for it.

And, as school life is not complete without the support of parents and townspeople, we are grateful, indeed, to all of you, parents and friends, who have helped us carry on during our four years, and who have spurred us on to further achievements.

Underclassmen, you have supported our class in all its undertakings, and we can only thank you by wishing you good luck in the rest of your activities while you are at Pinkerton.

Classmates: The time has come for our actual parting. Very soon we shall all choose the paths which we must follow. Some of us will go ahead to institutions of higher education, some may turn to success in immediate service, and still others may attain financial success or become leaders. As I stand before you now, I do not feel as if I were saying a final farewell, but as if I were greeting you on the threshold of another and the most important period of our lives.

Alumni Notes

Just recently Mr. and Mrs. Skibb of Derry announced the engagement of their daughter, Genevieve, to Mr. Edward H. Carpenter of Malden, Massachusetts. Miss Skibb is a graduate of Pinkerton Academy.

To Miss Eileen Blair, the students and the faculty say, "Best wishes," in honor of her coming marriage to Derwood E. Butler of Corinna, Maine. Her engagement was just recently announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blair of Derry Village. A graduate of Pinkerton with the class of 1935, Miss Blair is at the present time employed at the Academy as Librarian and Secretary to the Headmaster.

The news of the marriage of Miss Jean Elizabeth Burry to Samuel M. Patten at Fort Bragg has aroused much interest in Derry. A graduate of Pinkerton, Mr. Patten was very active and popular while at the Academy and very highly respected by his fellow-students. We are proud that Sam attended our school, and we know he will be loyal to good old P. A.

We are more than pleased to learn that two graduates of Pinkerton were joined in marriage not so long ago. They are Eleanor Manning and Herbert W. Taylor, and they were married Saturday morning, March 27.

Miss Rosemarie Senecal and Rev. William Lewis Nilman were united in marriage recently at Burlington, Vermont. Miss Senecal is the daughter of Mr. Alexander Senecal of Derry, and also a graduate of Pinkerton Academy.

We are glad to hear that Alan B. Shepard, Jr., of East Derry has been granted an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy by Senator Charles W. Tobey. Alan graduated from P. A. with the Class of 1940.

I guess P. A. graduates must believe in marriage because our long list increases all the time. Another marriage. This time it is that of Miss Martha B. Clark of New York City and Howard H. Wenk of Brooklyn, New York. Miss Clark is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Clark of Derry Village, and a graduate of P. A. with the Class of 1930.

Our attention has been called to another newly married couple in Derry. They are Doris Rollins and Roy A. Anderson. Miss Rollins graduated from Pinkerton in 1938. Best wishes from P. A.

With the War scare all over the country and the training of many young men for defense being so necessary, various types of preparation courses are offered in many of our Universities and Colleges. The University of New Hampshire offers a Civil Aeronautics Flight Training Course. Many students are making use of this offer. Among them is Vaughan O. Stevens of Derry, an alumnus of P. A.

Mr. Howard G. Moody, graduate of Pinkerton, was married to Miss Martha Jane Davey of Mansfield, Ohio, recently.

Mr. Leon J. Bellavance, a member of the Class of 1939 and a well-known young man of this town, and Miss Cecile Cote were united in marriage at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in May.

Miss Rita E. Riley and Robert J. Jordan were recently married in Lawrence, Massachusetts. The bride graduated from Pinkerton with the Class of 1937 and the groom with the Class of 1938.

A son, Richard David, was born May 3, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis of Chester. Both parents were formerly of the Class of 1940. Before her marriage, the mother was the former Miss Marilyn Smith of Derry.

Richard Bartlett of Boulder, Colorado, now a junior at the University of Colorado, will transfer to George Washington University of Washington, D. C., for his senior year. He is the son of John Bartlett of the Class of 1910.

It is with great regret that we list among our notes the death of Miss Marilyn Claire Hamilton of East Derry, who died Thursday, January 16. She was Salutatorian of her class at P. A. in 1939.

The students and friends of Pinkerton were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Florence Chase of Derry, who died April 13, 1941. Mrs. Chase was the wife of John C. Chase, a former trustee of Pinkerton Academy and Secretary of the Board of Trustees for a number of years.

We extend our deepest sympathy to the mother of Winston Arthur Ramsden, whose tragic death occurred during the summer of 1940. "Win" was a very highly respected member of the Class of 1936.

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The College of Business Administration offers young men a college program with broad and thorough training in the principles of business.

Under this program all students take courses in Accounting, Economics, Business Law, Finance, Marketing Management and Psychology during the first half of their college careers. With this excellent groundwork the student then specializes in one of the following fields for the last two years:

ACCOUNTING
JOURNALISM
BANKING AND FINANCE

MARKETING AND ADVERTISING PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION INDUSTRIAL ADMINISTRATION

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

The co-operative plan which is available beginning the second year in all courses provides for a combination of practical industrial experience with class-room instruction. After the freshman year students may alternate their periods of study with periods of work in the employ of business or industrial concerns at ten-week intervals. Under this plan the student is able to earn a considerable part of his college expenses and make business contacts which prove valuable upon graduation.
